PRESS RELEASE

ENGLISH

ff is pleased to present Temporary Autonomous Zone / 2 at Galerie im Körnerpark in Berlin. The project consists of two exhibitions, Erogenous Zone and ff* Collaborations, which both feature works by the feminist artist group ff and guests.

An extensive program of events including guided tours will accompany the exhibitions on Saturdays at the Kreativraum, Galerie im Körnerpark.

The Temporary Autonomous Zone is a frame for a living network of women artists. This network is formed around a constantly shifting discussion of contemporary feminist and participatory practices. Initiated and organized by ff, the Temporary Autonomous Zone has developed out of meetings between more than sixty female artists over the past few months. It creates an autonomous space to realize art projects, performances, lectures, discussions, film evenings, parties, and other events.

ff is a constantly evolving group of feminist artists founded in 2011. ff's way of working and communicating through art grows out of collaborations and discussions in close personal contact. Artistic collaborations, communal events that involve the public, discussions, and a reconstruction of feminist histories are all equally important. ff organized the first Temporary Autonomous Zone in Vienna at Galerie Lisa Ruyter, from September to November 2012.

The ff Archive will be open to the public in the entrance area during opening times. Films and videos can be viewed on request.

The ff Archive brings together information on feminist/female artists and related topics. It is open for all formats: books, catalogues, magazines, fanzines, artworks, music, films and videos, posters, postcards, photos, and files. All are encouraged to donate to the ff Archive and take home a multiple in exchange. ff organizes archival discussions and initiates research that aims at shifting existing patriarchal and Euro-centric cultural narratives.

ff: Alice Cohen, Delia Gonzalez, Mathilde ter Heijne, Antje Majewski, Katrin Plavcak, Nina Prader, Jen Ray, Lisa Ruyter, Juliane Solmsdorf, Melissa Steckbauer, Magda Tothova

For press inquiries and more information about the program please email ff@ffffff.org.
